WHY IS IT VERY FEW PEOPLE KNOW WHAT A NEWSPAPER REALLY IS?

*The Influence of Habit on the Average Man's Mind—
The Difference Between a Real Newspaper and What Most People Think a Newspaper Is.*

BY N. D. COCHRAN.

Do YOU know that nobody watches The Day Book every day with closer attention and keener interest than the other Chicago newspaper publishers?

Do YOU know that all over the country this little paper is being watched by other publishers who wonder what it all means?

Well, it's a fact. I happen to know it.

At first this adless paper was looked upon as a sort of freak. It didn't look like a newspaper. And nobody could ever imagine that a newspaper without advertising could be made to pay as a business proposition.

I expected that. I knew enough about human nature to know that very few men have imagination enough to think anything can be done that hasn't been done before.

We are such creatures of habit that we can see only what is right before our eyes.
